" ...We were also extremely impressed with the work you did to the farm house, it really did change the look of it dramatically... When I can, I visit the new owners in the farmhouse when I return to the UK. I can tell you that the work that you did, still looks as good as the day you completed it, in fact with the weathering, if it's possible, it looks even better now than it did then."

George Bebbington
(MIMMM) 1964

History

The founder of Bebbington Brick services, George Bebbington MIMMM (Member of the Institute of Materials Minerals & Mining), developed a method of colour alteration to masonry (tinting) in 1968.

With increasing demand for his services from manufactures, merchants and construction companies, he subsequently formed Bebbington Brick Services in 1989. The basic methods of tinting remain unchanged from the techniques employed 40 years ago with the added benefits of experience and product confidence.

About us

For many years, Bebbington Brick Services have been a nationwide trusted colour problem solver to the construction industry including all of the major U.K. brick manufacturers, all of the leading merchants and developers in both the commercial and housing sectors.

The many thousands of projects range from small extensions to tower blocks, prestigious hotels and private dwellings. Just some of these include, Warwick Castle, Fort Dunlop, Belfast Court House, The Wedgwood Museum, Aintree Racecourse, JJB Stadium, Old Trafford Cricket Ground, MOD and local authority contracts.

One project "The Violin Factory" was featured on Channel Fours, Grand Designs. Bebbington Brick Services were able to tint a party wall to the satisfaction of the local conservation officer and planning authority. This prevented the demolition of said wall, a significant re-design and the subsequent expense and heartache.

Bebbington exhibited at Grand Designs live at the NEC.
